

Mr. Tarh Besong Frambo, a Foreign Affairs Officer with the Ministry of External Relations for The Republic of Cameroon, was recently a speaker in Cranford High School. Students had the opportunity to hear him speak on a variety of topics based on personal knowledge and experience. He is shown speaking to the students in Ms. Amanda Charles' AP Human Geography class, explaining population trends in less developed countries compared to more developed countries. While at the high school, Mr. Frambo spoke to students in Mr. Vito's Holocaust /Genocide classes about the Rwandan genocide, Mrs. Schneider's International Business class about a trade and globalization, and Ms. Kelton's Criminal Justice class regarding the judicial system.
